NUMBER 20.

George Maze Rents Greenwade Yards

The Greenwade stock pens and stables were rented court day to George Maze for $2,270. Mr. Maze is a court day livestock dealer. He is ambitious to see the Mt. Sterling market increase and has staked his money and energy to this end. The pens will be filled every court day with good cattle and Mr. Maze will see that they will bring every cent they are worth. We count Mr. Maze among the liveliest men that is on the court day livestock market. Parties who would have another do their selling would do well to consign to Mr. Maze. Mr. Maze feels the time is here when Mt. Sterling should have organized stockyards like unto Louisville, Cincinnati and Nashville, and with co-operative influence we can get them and have one every Saturday and court day.

A large crowd of business men were in the city Monday, a hopeful throng. The active, advertising merchants reported a good business, but there were a pessimistic few who did not do much. They did not believe in advertising and, of course, there were many who did not know they were in business.

Mt. Sterling has clothing stores that would do credit to our largest cities and they were filled with anxious seekers from early morning to late in the afternoon. In this line business was very heavy, one firm saying they had all they could wait on.

There are many firms that handle shoes, but one exclusive house said, "We had a heavy business today and are preparing for a big trade Wednesday, when whole families will be here to meet Santa."

The dry goods stores were thronged from the early morning until late, those who had used the printers' ink freely leading by more than a quarter. They reported about this way, "We had about all our force could do." There are very few cities in Kentucky that carry better stocks than are found in Mt. Sterling.

When we say Mt. Sterling carries the best stocks in the grocery line we have no fear of successful contradiction, and in this department trade was all that could be desired, fancy groceries leading the staples. Grocers were well satisfied.

The toys and confections houses did a sure enough business. One merchant (he is a liberal advertiser in The Advocate) said his sales in bulk were as heavy as they were last year, when prices were much higher. The big trade is expected tomorrow, when the kiddies and their mamas will meet here to see Santa, the real.

The light drink and restaurant stands were literally run over. Every indication was a return of the good old days. The report from the recent tobacco sales brought harvest

Local Odd Fellows Celebrate at Rooms

Watson Lodge, No. 32, I. O. O. F., celebrated its 75th anniversary at the club rooms last night with a most enjoyable social, at which were present the members and their wives and a few invited guests. Judge E. B. January, Grand Master of Kentucky, made a very interesting talk, after which an eloquent address was delivered by Judge Charles Chorn, of Harrodsburg. Rev. Clyde Darsie acted as toastmaster and gave a history of the local lodge. Two splendid readings, touching upon the practices of the order, were given by Mrs. John S. Frazer. Judge J. W. Groves, who has been secretary of the lodge for 33 years, and who has been the very life of the organization, was able to be present and was warmly greeted by his fellow members. During the hours delightful vocal and instrumental music was rendered by Mrs. Emilee Reid, Billy Reid, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Strother, Mrs. Lee Orear, G. B. Senff and Joe Keller. An elaborate lunch of substantial was served, and the occasion proved one of the most enjoyable ones ever held by the local lodge.

JULIUS CAESAR AT THE TABB

Julius Caesar, that masterpiece of historical romance, will be shown at the Tabb Theatre December 26, and all lovers of good pictures are looking forward to this occasion. More than 20,000 persons appear in some of the big scenes, and in point of sheer spectacle, this picture has no equal. Julius Caesar is portrayed by Anthony Novelli, who bears a striking resemblance to Caesar. The film is in six reels and lasts one and a quarter hours. The scenes were taken in Rome and are said to be marvelously beautiful.

COMMUNITY WORK STRESSED AT EXTENSION CONFERENCE

Kentucky farms can be made more profitable and her farm homes more happy and contented through the development of a well organized community program of work, according to opinions expressed by speakers who addressed the state's 100 extension workers in agriculture and home economics in their four-day annual conference which has just closed. Discussion relative to the community and the part it plays in bringing about improvements on the farm and in the home of the state dominated the entire conference.

Three phases of the subject were given special attention at the conference. These included a discussion of the community as a unit for extension work, a united community program to include both the farm and the home, and the construction of a community program of work.

Several speakers emphasized the fact during the conference that the agricultural and home problems of a county or given district could be solved best by working at them from a community standpoint. Chief among the speakers who brought out this point was T. F. Dixon, of the University of Tennessee, who spoke on "Community, the Unit for Extension." He pointed out that inasmuch as the community (whose center was the village church, the store or the school house, represented a natural organization that it was the logical basis for extension work.

A united program of work to include the farm home as well as the farm itself is one of the greatest needs of American agriculture, several of the speakers brought out in addressing the workers. In the future more attention can be profitably given the problems of the home and community and perhaps less to the farm problems which are usually included in economic production, purchasing and marketing, they pointed out.

Considerable time was devoted at the conference to discussing methods of building the community program of work. Problems of better livestock, clothing, health, home management, labor-saving devices, better roads, schools and country churches were given an important place in the program.

J. W. Whitehouse, Daviess county agent, was elected president of the state's county agents during the conference. W. C. Wilson, Pulaski county, was named vice president, and C. L. Taylor, Boyle county, secretary-treasurer.

THE END OF THE YEAR

The time of the year has come when to men comes the opportunity to express the long year repressed sentiments of affection and love. On Christmas day those who have selfishly or thoughtlessly buried in the lowermost recesses of their hearts the love of their fellows open wide the doors of their souls and let out of the cages the Blue Birds of Happiness and Christmas Joy. The key that unlocks the barred door of affection and esteem is the Christmas gift—not the gorgeous bauble carelessly purchased by some haughty Croesus, but the little sensible, useful, thoughtful gifts presented by the millions of us to the millions of us—the simple gift made by you and me along which goes our hearts—and warmed by the spirit of Christmas day.

To this end of this year thousands of people in Montgomery county have been looking forward with pleasant anticipation and satisfaction. Throughout the weeks of 1921 they have been presenting a little pass book to the Christmas Club window, where the smiling financial agent of dear old Santa Claus has been receiving thousands of small sums weekly. The merchants of the city, who have known of this steady accumulation have been planning to be in readiness to supply the wants of thrifty Christmas buyers. Our merchants look upon the end of the year as an opportunity to show that in Mt. Sterling Christmas money will go as far as any place in the state.

Surely at the end of the year 1921 many thousands can look upon the past twelve months with one feeling of satisfaction at least—the knowledge that one thing was well done—that they planned and carried out successfully the accumulation of financial means with which they are going to satisfy their desire to enjoy the delight of knowing that "it is more blessed to give than to receive."

The Traders National Bank, "The Bank With a Welcome," this week paid to the members of its Christmas Club the sum of $30,000, and this large amount has gladdened the hearts of not only many children, but a number of grown-ups. This progressive and live financial institution has opened the books of its 1922 Christmas savings club for members, and you are urged to join the happy crowd, and next Christmas you will not have to worry about the financial troubles of the holiday season.

The Christmas savings club was inaugurated by the Traders National Bank in 1909 with a deposit of $2,500 and has gradually grown and is still growing.

Williams, wife of a well-known farmer on Route 6, this place. "My husband, having heard of Cardui, proposed getting it for me. I saw after taking some Cardui that I was improving. The result was surprising. I felt like a different person."

"Later I suffered from weakness and weak back, and felt all run-down. I did not rest well at night. I was so nervous and cross. My husband said he would get me some Cardui, which he did. It strengthened me. My doctor said I got along fine. I was in good healthy condition. I cannot say too much for it."

FARMERS REALIZE VALUE OF MANURE CONSERVATION

Realizing that farm manure contains much valuable plant food and organic matter, Kentucky farmers this year are giving increased attention to its conservation and careful use, according to R. E. Stephenson, a member of the soils and crops department of the College of Agriculture. Many farmers are realizing that the manure produced on their farms is the cheapest source of plant food which they have and as a result the material is being hauled and spread frequently or stored properly instead of being left in the barnyard where it is exposed to weather conditions that leach out the plant food.

"Experiments and experiences of different farmers show that several factors determine the method in which manure should be used," Mr. Stephenson said. "On heavy soils, better results usually are obtained when the manure is plowed under because it can be mixed with the soil in this way and the decay of it will tend to open up soils which have a compact texture."

"The coarser the material, the more advisable it is to turn it under rather than to top dress with it. Coarse, strawy manure, if not plowed under in the fall, gives best results when turned under early in the spring to allow time for mixing and compacting the soil and manure. We have found that fine manure gives better results for top dressing."

"On poor land, it is best to use part of the manure for top dressing clover and grass than to apply all of it to the corn land. Top dressing at least the poorest parts of the field should help to get a good stand of grass and eliminate some of the difficulty which Kentucky farmers are having in producing their clover crops."

"WHAT IS MAN—THOU ART MINDFUL OF HIM?"

The city man when he gets up in the morning, turns on the gas, picks up the paper off the front porch, takes a cold shower, eats a cold storage egg and a slice of baker's bread toast and marvels anew on the mightiness of man.

The city man, at night, leaves the heaped tombs where men bury their souls in business, and in his smooth riding machine whirled home, with arc lights for his moon, and the smoke of a thousand chimneys for his heaven.

Man's works are all about him and he becomes highly important in his estimation.

Religions and philosophies are not born in cities; they die there.

The farmer stumbles from his bed in the dark, he splits his wood from the tough side of a knot, he draws his water from the depths of a dug well, and, looking off to the east, he sees the day mysteriously being born again; he pauses a moment and hears the eternal hymn the birds sing each morning to the new sun; he watches the flood of life-giving light slowly wash over the rounded hills, and gild the mirror surface of the pasture stream.

At night, after a day in the field, in the woods, in the hills, somewhere close to the beginning and root of things, the countryman comes home through the dusk, the moon in its first quarter swings a silver crescent over his left shoulder; the afterglow of the departed sun touches the tips of the tall trees away off to the west; the birds are snuggling to their night's rest with contented twitter and chirp; the night hawk whirls his great circles between the circling bats, and the whisper of little winds in the forest tell of many mysteries.

After snapper the stars come out, blazing eternal stars, vivid red Mars, the constellations gem the purple vastness above, and the cooling earth invites to rest.

And the farmer understands how the ancient felt when he exclaimed: "What is man that Thou art mindful of him?"

GOVERNMENT IMPROVEMENT OF OUR COMMUNITY CENTERS

Brother Simeon Fess, of the national house of representatives, is preparing to be an unprogressive "watch dog of the treasury." Listen to his pronouncement:

"Now that national government expenses are being heavily reduced, let us nail the freak hills that will be introduced to eat up the saving."

Sounds very careful and patriotic, doesn't it? But the truth is that Brother Fess refers to hills that are intended to help masses of the people of whom the government never before thought of doing anything except to govern them and tax them. For instance, the government is now building a lot of public roads. We have no doubt at all that some congressmen will introduce a bill providing that where the nation is building a paved street, it shall also pave as part of the same project a few extra cross streets wherever the work passes through a community center—that is, a small town. And if the bill is any good at all, it will provide that the government, at its own expense, shall put in storm sewers before the pavement is laid, and extend those sewers to the farms in good time.

Brother Fess would immediately denounce that bill as a "freak," but in truth it is pure common sense. If pavements are laid through the open country, the farmer who drives on them should not find mud streets at the end of his drive in the country town. If he finds a few well paved cross streets in the village, he will come often and nothing will be better for the farmer, his wife and his sons and daughters than to visit the nearby town often. It will mean for them entertainment, friendships, extension of education and more prosperity in their business. All of which is an asset to the nation as a whole.

Let the government pave and sewer (for mere health precaution) our small towns and—in time—provide power and light utilities for them. Any community so helped will prosper so greatly that it will be able to replace the facilities when the time for replacement arrives.

Pool To Secure All Leaf Floors

All warehouses in the burley belt, valued at more than $5,000,000, will be transferred to the Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association, plans announced at the adjournment of the first meeting of the board of directors at Lexington indicated.

Four meetings of warehousemen from different sections of Kentucky, and from Indiana and Ohio, will be called by Ralph M. Barker, director of warehouses.

The first will be held at Carrollton today at which warehousemen from the northwestern section of the burley district and from Indiana will gather to hear the plan which has been tentatively drawn up by the association.

Other meetings will be held at Shelbyville, December 21; Maysville, December 22, and Lexington, December 23.

The last day, the board of directors will hold its second meeting to approve the terms negotiated by Mr. Barker for the transfer of the warehouses to the association.

Under the tentative plan adopted, Kentucky will be divided into four warehouse districts, in each of which a subsidiary corporation to handle and store tobacco belonging to the association.

Each subsidiary will be under contract with the association to handle the tobacco of the association at cost, and in return, the association agrees to pay all costs of operation, including purchasing payments.

Directors of each subsidiary will be independent of the association in order to comply with rulings by the banks and government credit agencies.

NURSERY RHYME SONGS FOR THE LITTLE FOLKS

Many times a busy mother is at her wit's end to know what to suggest to her children for amusement, while she is occupied with her own duties. A pastime which my little niece, only two and a half years old, enjoys, may be suggestive.

Dorothy has learned a number of Mother Goose rhymes, which she enjoys repeating. She also likes music. She loves to listen to songs on the victrola, and she understands the words of many of them.

This little tot is a very self-reliant person; she has learned to do many things for herself, among them she is able to manipulate records on a small box victrola. Of course, no risks are taken by allowing her to use expensive records; she must have her own. We want her to hear only good music, so we have purchased nine small records. They come in hooks, a set of three in a book. Each hook contains three nursery rhymes, with illustrations, and three double-sheet pages (pockets) into which are slipped the records of each of the three rhymes set to music.

The Broadway chorus girls are making their own clothes for the street and some even for the stage. "Our wardrobes are lighter," explains one of them, who is brainless, "but our purses are heavier." The stage, like business, is feeling the bad times. The failure of some managements to reduce their prices may not look like it, but the chorus girls know, and are economizing accordingly. There is an occasional chorus girl who is brainless, extravagant and misbehaved. Unfortunately she gets most of the advertising and is considered as the type. The majority of them are sensible, practical and honest. They prove this by adjusting their expenditures to their incomes. This is the basis of correct budgeting, thrift, financial success, and true honesty. It is the course counseled for everybody by the greatest financial experts of the world. It is a pity that the foolish virgins and matrons, too, who believe that they are imitating the typical stage woman by being immodest, outrageous and extravagant are not better acquainted with the facts.

A FEW FACTS ABOUT

THE FIELD MINSTRELS

The company consisted of 60 people. They came here from Frankfort; have the highest class traveling band on the road, their instruments being made especially for each member and all were gold plated. Their orchestra was the best that ever played at the Tabb Theatre. The performance given was the highest class of any minstrel yet given in Mt. Sterling. Their coming was announced by the biggest circus billing the Tabb has given a road attraction in that Mr. Conrad, manager of the show, supplied the Tabb with more advertising material for their date in Mt. Sterling than he gave McCauley's on the opening of the present season in Louisville. Mr. Higgins, agent for the show, when in Mt. Sterling stated that the Tabb lobby had the finest advertising display for their show of the season. The expenses for the Field Minstrel show are $1,000 a day. Their car fare in and out of Mt. Sterling was about $600. It required a crew of five men to remove all of the Tabb's scenery from the theatre the day previous to the show and put the stage in shape to receive all of the Field equipment to put their show on. They carried a crew of seven workmen and the theatre furnished twenty-two more men for stage work. The Tabb employed thirty-two employees who were necessary to handle the show. Winchester, Paris, North Middletown, Owingsville, Sharpshurg, Salt Lick and Morehead were represented at the night show, but very few from Mt. Sterling were present. The show went from here to Huntington for a three-day showing.

It may not be of much interest to anybody, but the reason people place very little value on advice is because they don't have to slip after night and break a law to get it.

HONEY PHILOSOPHY FOR 1921

Ignorance is slavery whosoever ignorance exists. As an example, the ignorant Russian masses are slaves of a few dozen highly educated and shrewd men led by Lenin and Trotsky. On the other hand, there is no place for ignorance in a democracy. Where all men are equal, every man should be educated in order that he shall enjoy the same freedom, the pleasures and blessings that the educated man enjoys. There is too much illiteracy in every state and union, and we hope that the women, with their newly given right to the vote, will speedily put an end to that.

UNIVERSITY OF EVOLUTION

Dr. McVey, the president of Kentucky University, in answer to the charges that evolution or Darwinism is being taught in the university, and that two text books, one on geology and the other on biology are infamous and should not be used on account of the influence they are likely to have on the Christian faith of the student body, does not deny the arraignment.

He says that biology, which teaches evolution, is a science, and he undertakes to defend himself and the university against the charges upon the grounds that it is a science.

Evolution is not a science. It is merely a theory, and it is the most harmful and dangerous theory that could possibly be taught. It is the entering wedge to skepticism and infidelity for it is impossible for anyone to believe in evolution or Darwinism and be a Christian. If man was not created by God but came from a monkey, then the Bible is not the inspired word of God, but a fable. Without God as a Creator, there can be no Supreme Being at all.

Evolution blots out God as a Creator and under the guise that it is a science, it is a most damnable and infamous attack upon Christianity.

We had better not have a State University at all than to have one which undermines the Christian faith of the young men and women who are sent there for an education.

When the matter is fully understood every Christian in the state will be up in arms against this infamous teaching and the university can only be saved by prohibiting the use of these specified textbooks and the dismissal from the faculty of those professors who are teaching this doctrine of evolution.

This is no denominational fight upon the university, for the purpose of building up denominational colleges, but a fight by the Christians of every faith against this black flag of infidelity, which has been raised over this state institution.

The matter is very properly to be taken to the legislature and a new board of regents for the university should be demanded who will take enough interest in the institution to know what is being taught there.

The people do not demand that Christianity should be taught in the Kentucky University, but they will demand that nothing shall be taught there which is hostile to Christianity. There are no Christian parents would not rather have their children deprived of a university education than have the doctrine of evolution taught them threatening to undermine their Christian faith.—Elizabethton News.

BLUE GRASS SHOW HOLDS INTEREST OF POULTRYMEN

With inquiries and entries being received from many Kentucky farmers and poultrymen as well as from those in other states, indications are that the first annual winter poultry show to be held at Lexington December 27 to 31 under the auspices of the Blue Grass Poultry Association will be an outstanding success, according to A. S. Chapin, poultry extension specialist of the College of Agriculture and president of the association. Many of the details and arrangements for the show have been completed, according to the announcement.

Judges announced for the show in a catalogue recently mailed to interested poultrymen include W. Clayton Thomason, Georgetown; Len Rawnsley, Louisville; A. W. Haler, Louisville, and J. R. Smyth, extension specialist in poultry from the college.

Healthful Vigor In Strong Blood

Rich, Red Blood Built Up by Pepto-Mangan—Liquid or Tablet

Blood is strong and full of life-giving vigor when there are plenty of red cells in it. Anaemic people have little strength because there are not enough red cells in the blood. It is thin and watery. Weak blood makes faces pale, pulls down the strength and leaves the body tired, weak and sickly.

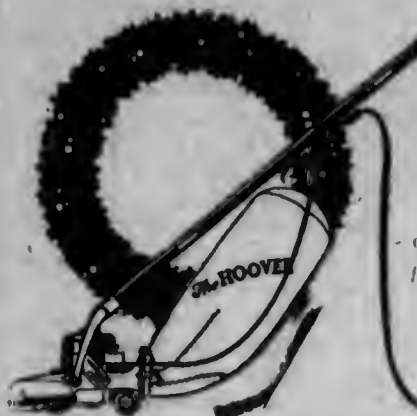

A course of Gude's Pepto-Mangan restores weak blood to its normal strength. Taken regularly for a while it adds red cells to the blood. Then with good blood, the strength and vigor of health return. There is pleasure in living, with good blood running through the veins. Gude's Pepto-Mangan is put up in liquid and in tablet form. They are the same medicinally. Physicians have prescribed Gude's Pepto-Mangan for years. The name "Gude's Pepto-Mangan" is on the package.—Ad.

WAYNE COUNTY FARMERS GO AFTER SCRUB SIRE

In an effort to rid the county of scrub sires, farmers in Wayne county, co-operating with the county agent and local farmers' organizations have set about to dispose of the last one before February 4, 1922, according to report from that county. The movement was started at a recent meeting when a resolution was adopted endorsing the better sires and better stock campaign and urging farmers to dispose of their scrubs. A committee has been appointed to work with the county agent in carrying on the drive.

Of all base things an ingrate is the worst, and gratefulness is co-extensive greatness.

Jesse Carpenter and wife gave a dance Tuesday night, which all enjoyed.

Mrs. Lena Turley, of Kansas City, came Monday to attend the funeral of her grandmother, Mrs. Martha Alexander. She will spend the week with her parents, J. D. Alexander and wife.

Misses Mildred and Frances Phipps, who have been attending school in Mt. Sterling, were brought home Tuesday by the Red Cross nurse. The physician pronounced their trouble diphtheria. They seem to be getting along nicely.

Mrs. Martha Alexander, who had been in bad health for many years, died December 10 at her home in Mt. Sterling. Burial took place here December 12 in the family graveyard by the side of her husband, William Alexander. She was 71 years old and leaves one son, J. D. Alexander, of this place; five grandchildren, Mrs. Virgil Montjoy, of Mt. Sterling, who lived with her; Mrs. Charles Payne, of Camargo; Mrs. Lena Turley, of Kansas City, and Lloyd and Sherman Alexander, of this place. She also leaves one sister, Mrs. Mollie Withrow, of Lexington, who will sadly miss her. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Clyde Darsie, of Mt. Sterling.

Oh, mother, how we loved you,
Love you we always will;
Though you are gone from us to Heaven,

In our hearts we have you still.
You are gone, but not forgotten,
Dear mother, nor shall you ever be,
As long as life and memory last

We shall remember thee.
I think of you in silence,
No eye can see me weep,
But many a silent tear I shed

When others are asleep.
No one knows how much I miss you,
Friends may think the wound is healed,

But little do they know the grief
That lies within my heart concealed.

NEW CIRCULAR DISCUSSES CONTROL OF CROWN-BORER

With the growth of the strawberry industry in Kentucky and a corresponding increase in the spread and multiplication of the strawberry crown-borer, this pest has come to be a serious one in the state, according to Circular No. 27, which has just come off the press at the College of Agriculture and which is being distributed to the interested growers.

In addition to being well illustrated the publication contains a discussion of the damage done by the insect together with suggestions for its control and eradication. The circular, which was written by Harrison Garman, entomologist at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station, Lexington, may be obtained free by writing the station.

Produce Review

The volume of cream delivered to creameries during the week has continued to show an increase over the same week last year. It is generally recognized that in most territories, at present, grain can be fed for milk production and give a larger return than if disposed of direct.

Increased butter receipts have caused a slight decline in market values, with corresponding lower prices prevailing for butterfat, but even at present prices the comparison on butterfat prices is still favorable.

There has been a continuous heavy movement of poultry during the week, but prices are generally unchanged.

Continued open weather has resulted in further increases in the supply of fresh eggs, and as there is still a large quantity of eggs in storage, it has resulted in somewhat lower prices, both in buying and selling.

Twice Proven

If you suffer backache, sleepless nights, tired, dull days and distressing urinary disorders, don't experiment. Read this twice-told testimony. It's Mt. Sterling evidence—twice proven.

Mrs. W. T. Atchison, 43 E. High street, gave the following statement: January 6, 1917: "I had dull backaches and a soreness through my kidneys. I also had frequent dizzy headaches and my kidneys didn't act regularly. I read of Doan's Kidney Pills and used them as directed. They restored my kidneys to a good healthy condition and relieved the other symptoms of kidney trouble."

On December 11, 1920, Mrs. Atchison said: "The statement I gave in 1917 holds good. I recommend Doan's as highly today as when I gave my last endorsement. The good they did me has lasted."

I AM A LITTLE CHRISTMAS SEAL

I am a little Christmas Seal,
Oh, please, sir, won't you buy me?
For I've a mission that is real,
And no one should deny me.
A penny, sir, will pay for me,
I'm sure you'll never rue it—
My mission is to fight T-B,
And you must help me do it.

It's more than just a one-hand stunt
To slay this thing of terror,
So I'm the nifty at the front,
And you're the stretcher-bearer;
For where we come or where we go,
In foul or fairest weather,
Tuberculosis is our foe,
And we must stand together.

Both life and health we may prolong
If you will pay a penny;
Let's help the kiddies to be strong.
For underfed tots are many;
And house to house and town to town,
Let's work to save the babies—
Oh, please, sir, do not turn me down,
With promises and babies.

Just kindly kiss me on the back
And stick me to a letter,
And for a penny and for a smack
We'll make the whole world better;
And, oh, how glad we both shall feel
If you'll but trust and try me;
I'm just a little Christmas Seal—
Oh, please, sir, won't you buy me?
—Mal Rose.

HOMIE PHILOSOPHY FOR 1921

Yes, the auto is a great convenience and also a great pleasure, but—but—we can't forget our good old friend, the horse. As Will Ogilve reminds us in "Field," he was of the days that were steadfast, staunch and slow; when we took time to think deeply and when our brains made us firm in faith and hearty to principle and duty. says Ogilve:

Along the road the ceaseless motors thrust,
Shrieking discordant warning and harsh blame.

Then suddenly, proud stepping thru the dust,
Comes what I'll call for want of better name

I find a sorrow in his stubborn stride;

With grief unguessed I stand and watch him go.
He carries with him much that nursed our pride;

Remembered things; things steadfast, staunch, and slow.

"THE RISING TIDE OF COLOR"

Lathrop Stoddard, American author, traveler and lecturer, has worked himself into quite a sweat for some time now over "The Rising Tide of Color." He seems to see portents in the brassness shown of late by the brown in Japan and other Pacific islands, the yellow and browns in Asia and the blacks in Africa and America.

For a hundred years, and more, thousands of the earth's greatest scholars have spent their lives studying the origin and history of mankind; digging deep, into the earth and finding illuminating evidences of prehistoric humans; examining and deciphering the drawings on cave walls that were scratched there in the days before man even knew that children had fathers; and delving among rocks for fossilized man and the things he lived with a hundred thousand or perhaps a million years ago.

The things they have found and learned and solved have been pieced together as you would piece together a letter that had been torn into a thousand fragments. These show many facts, but among others it is proved that the white race has dominated since humans were created. The only reason that some men are brown, and some are yellow and some are black, is that the whites ages ago drove them from the most desirable lands to the less desirable lands. Men naturally weaker in brain and physique became yellow when the whites drove them into wet, swampy, hot lands. Still weaker men, with still less brain capacity, became black when they were driven by the whites into the least desirable lands of all—those that were fearfully hot and arid.

Consequently, it is instinct of the flesh, bone and blood—it is, indeed, nature itself—for the white race to dominate this planet. Mere man cannot overturn the laws of nature. Inbred instinct is not changed in a generation, or in a thousand years, either. "The Rising Tide of Color" may cause grave troubles, even great, world-wide ferocities, but nature ever wins and when it is all over, you will find the whites triumphant, dominating as always since the beginning of human life.

THE TRUTH ABOUT CORN IN THE HOG

One of our learned city newspaper editors tells us that corn in the hog is worth 90 cents a bushel, while corn sold in the raw for cash is only worth 48 cents a bushel. The said learned city writer draws the conclusion, therefore, that it will be very profitable for hog raisers to feed their corn to hogs this winter.

We don't pretend to be corn experts, or hog experts, or experts on corn in the hog, but we believe that our city friend has overlooked a few things. That which lies between the 48 cents for cash corn and 90 cents for corn in the hog, is not merely corn.

When you have sold your bushel of corn for 48 cents and delivered it, the bushel of corn has passed from your life. But if you refrain from selling it, and feed it to hogs instead you add some things that should count as expenses. The labor of feeding the bushel of corn into the hog, the labor of taking proper care of that hog, the work and risk of keeping that hog alive, the expense of providing him with a comfortable home, the measures to protect the feed from predatory animals, and finally the toll, trouble and dangers of moving a living bushel of corn rather than an inanimate bushel of corn to market.

Forty-eight cents cash corn, plus human labor, plus human brain work, plus other overhead, equals 90 cents per bushel.

And then when that corn in the hog gets to market, you may very well find yourself receiving very much less than 90 cents a bushel for him.

THE CHILD—AND SERVICE

One night nearly two thousand years ago three wise men came plodding from the East, guided by a star to the manger of the Christ Child. They knew that which they were seeking, but they knew not how nor when it should be shown to them. They sought the spirit of service that should mean to countless millions following after, "Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men."

Associated together in the American Legion for service to God and country, bound by ties of service together in dangerous times, this day of days should mean much to us. We know its message and our duty is clear before us.

Thousands of our comrades lie broken and sick for whom the war can never end. Our first duty is to them and our star—the white light of our conscience guides us there, while we fight for their proper recognition by a willing bit forgetful nation. Let us make this Christmas Day a starting point in our personal service to them.

Those of us who were fortunate enough to come back untouched can, if only our presence beside them and those they hold dear, sometime on that day, give them assurance that we have not and shall not forget. It is no more than we would expect of them, were our positions reversed. There may be things which can be done for them, not in charity but as one buddy to another. If there are, let us do them. And if during the holidays each one can find employment for even one of the thousands of ex-service men who are tramping the streets of our cities looking for work, no better Christmas present could come to them. It will make Christmas Day mean more to us all, and may yours be a happy one.
